

Event Medicine Services - Information for Clients

Company Overview

Remote Medic UK Ltd is a Care Quality Commission Registered company providing event medical services, expedition medicine and remote area medical provision both in the UK and internationally.

Our staff come from a variety of backgrounds and include doctors, paramedics, nurses, emergency medical technicians and first aiders.

Our services extend from basic first aid cover to a complete field medical centre. We specialise in the provision of medical services for complex and higher risk events but we will be happy to provide a competitive quotation for any event, large or small, whether locally, UK-wide or overseas. Our experience includes major stadium and sporting events, equestrian and motor sport events, music and cultural festivals, air shows, corporate functions and other mass gathering public events.

Our Approach

Our approach to event medicine is one of zero drama, quiet competence and, wherever possible, we aim to provide a level of medical care sufficient to treat and discharge patients at scene rather than removing them to hospital. This is important not only for the individual concerned but also for event organiser, both to maintain attendance and maximise income and to avoid an increased burden on local NHS hospital and ambulance services.

Before providing a quotation for medical cover, we will establish the risk profile of the event and perform an initial risk assessment to determine the correct level of cover for your event.

For large or complex events, we will work with the event management team to develop a medical plan and risk mitigation strategy in line with current health and safety legislation and best industry practice.
